

Italian Natural Gas Transporter SGI Selects Telvent in Milestone Implementation

In a first of its kind – deployment of Telvent system increases reliability; automates gas reporting for European market deregulation compliance

February 4, 2010, – Telvent (NASDAQ: TLVT), the IT company for a sustainable and secure world, announced today that Società Gasdotti Italia S.P.A. (SGI), the largest private natural gas transporter in Italy, has completed implementation of Telvent's gas reporting application. With this installation – the first of its kind in Europe – SGI's operational data is fully and redundantly available across the enterprise.

Information from SGI's 1,300 kilometers of high pressure pipeline is integrated into POLARIS (Pipeline Operations, Logistics, and Revenue Information System) for gas contracts, gas nominations, billing, gas allocation, and reporting. The tool helps minimize manual entry and improve reporting accuracy, so SGI can improve service to over 400 industrial customers and municipalities across Italy.

The system interfaces with SGI's business system, SAP, for efficient and accurate billing and invoicing. POLARIS is easily scalable to help SGI meet current and future business requirements. In addition, SGI can comply with regulatory mandates and reporting requirements of the Italian Gas Authority with highly available operational data for rapid business processes.

"Full use of available technology and a relentless search for innovation are SGI traits that keep us on a path of ever-increasing quality of service in a cost efficient manner," said SGI's Managing Director, Mr. Federico Frassi. "Our close relationship with Telvent has been a key factor enabling such development."

"SGI's implementation is a true example of Telvent applications adding significant value by making real-time business decisions possible," affirmed Larry Stack, president of Telvent's Energy division. "We are pleased to contribute to SGI's on-going business success."
